

PROVINCIAL BRIEFS

EIGHTEEN RINKS ARE ENTERED IN JITNEY SPIEL

On Monday evening of this week, the men's and ladies' curling clubs held a joint jitney spiel with 18 rinks participating. Each rink played three four-end games, total scores deciding the winner.

Woe savings stamps were awarded as prizes and first prize of $150 each went to the rink skipped by "Abe" Ahmady. Other members at the rink were Mr. McDermid, L. Thompson and Mrs. Granger.

Second prize went to Eli Ahmady, composed of Hattie Wakel, Henry Johnson and Betty Banner. Consolation was won by Nick Oswald, rink composed of Elmer Coulson, E. Oswald and Lily Thompson.

Committee in charge was Miss Florence Beckage, Betty Banner, Joe Olsad and Eli Ahmady.

BENTON STATION
Hockey Dance
Members of the Benton Hockey Club held a dance in the community hall on St. Patrick's night. Young people attended from Oyen, Acadia Valley and Sidsal.

FERINTOSH
Couple Feted
Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Jeanen, married recently, were honored at a gathering of friends this night. They were presented with many lovely gifts. The couple will reside near Wetaskiwin.

Cattle Injured
When Truck Tips

Carrying a cargo of livestock, a truck driven by William Kodryk of Royal Park injudiciously drove over the new highway. One heifer was killed instantly and other cattle were injured. The driver and other occupants escaped. The livestock was covered by insurance. This is the first major accident of the new highway, running south of Mundare. Damage to the truck was estimated at $100.

Mountain Belt
Men On Leave

Preed Laine, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Laine, Cadomin, in training with the Royal Canadian Navy on the west coast is now on leave and spending a few days with his parents here.

Neil McLean of the Leduc Mercantile office, Leduc, Alberta, is now in training with the Royal Canadian Navy on the west coast.

Mr. Andrew Haddon of the Edmonton Fuelers, formerly employed at Mountain Park Collieries, is now home on leave.

GLENDON
Delegates Leave
R. F. Kettles left for Edmonton Saturday as a delegate from the Glendon board of trade to interview provincial government officials. Mrs. Kettles and Mrs. L. H. Leach are delegates to the convention of the Women's Auxiliaries of the Diocese of Edmonton in All Saints' parish hall.

March 29 Set
For Auction Of Surplus Goods

March 29 is the date set for the city's annual community auction sale, when the surplus goods from the city's various departments will be sold.

Although the Women's Institute usually serves meals and hot coffee, many farmers bring their lunches and picnic in their sleighs, cars or buggies.

Club for War
Work Set Up

A number of local women met this week to organize a war work group, and the following officers were elected: Mrs. W. Brunner, president; Mrs. D. Walker, vice-president; Mrs. F. Lager, secretary-treasurer.

Future work will be held at the home of Mrs. Doreen Glass, residing in home of Ted Krawinkel, who has enlisted with the R.C.A.F. The group of women received a military brass set.

Church Players

Memorial Church Players will present their first dramatic offering, "Aunt Samantha," rules the road at the church Friday, April 12. The event is sponsored by the Ladies' Aid.

McCoy Health

Shortness of breath is a symptom which may be mild or severe and which arises from various causes. One of the most common causes is a heart condition, and the person who is short of breath and out of condition will become winded by activity which the trained athlete would perform with out the slightest sign of the breath becoming short.

Victorious exertion will cause everyone to become short of breath sooner or later as normal life increases the work of the breathing organs about ten times. Shortness of breath will occur at that exact point where the breathing mechanism can no longer take in oxygen and throw out carbon dioxide as fast as the body requires.

Likewise, the average person in good health will be able to carry on longer without shortness of breath than the person in whom the breathing capacity of the lungs has been reduced by disease.

Citizens Going "Over The Top"

Citizens of Lloydminster and district are going over the top in the war savings campaign. To date, citizens have subscribed close to $100,000 and the month-to-month purchases as represented by the individual and employer-employee plans will add several thousand dollars to the total during 1941.

This amount is in addition to the sale of war savings stamps at the local post office.

Likewise, the average person in good health will be able to carry on longer without shortness of breath than the person in whom the breathing capacity of the lungs has been reduced by disease.

With a mild indication of breathlessness, the patient often finds that the breathing is comfortable as long as he is at rest, but that he is conscious of discomfort when putting on his clothes, or when climbing stairs. With a more severe limitation, he becomes somewhat breathless even when sitting.

Shortness of breath may occur in the heart patient, but it is a general trouble known as angina pectoris. When due to heart trouble, the patient may be relieved by nitroglycerin, which, when taken under the tongue, acts through the blood vessels of the heart to relax the coronary arteries. The use of a simple, reliable, and safe, and a general relief to correct your distress. However, the patient should not expect that the most rapid improvement will result from the use of nitroglycerin.

It is not a cure through the use of the plain water fast for a few days at the start of the treatment, before use of nitroglycerin is begun. Probably you will acquire temporary relief after a few days' treatment through the use of nitroglycerin, or through using milk of magnesia to cleanse the bowels, and to neutralize the excess acid, although a permanent relief can only be expected from this type of treatment. An article, Dr. Reducing Stomach Acidity, is now ready for distribution and this article will be sent to any one desiring a copy who requests it, by writing and enclosing one large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Leafs, Bruins Dominate National Hockey League All-Star Selections

Inclusion Of Stanowski Proves Surprise Of Voting

By SYDNEY GRISON
TORONTO, March 20.—(CP)—Loaded with the power and the main defensive strength of Boston Bruins and Toronto Maple Leafs, the 11th annual Canadian Press All-Star National Hockey League teams were announced today, a few hours before the opening of the Stanley Cup playoffs.

These "dream" teams, consensus of selections by 30 sports writers in N.H.L. cities, have no less than nine of the 12 positions filled by Bruins and Leafs, testimony enough as to why they battle tonight in the first game of the cup semi-finals.

OSHAWA JUNIORS LOSE TO TORONTO

OSHAWA, Ont., March 20.—(CP)—Toronto Marlboros scored a convincing victory over the Oshawa Generals in the second game of a best-of-seven series for the Ontario Hockey Association Junior "A" championship. Oshawa was the first to score, but the Marlboros pulled away from the Dominion championship after their first goal, after coming from behind to tie the score and fully dominated third period.

THE C.P. TEAMS
Three men never before selected for all-star honors are on this year's all-star club, packed with the color that goes naturally with the professional game in any sport. Walter "Turk" Brinkman, Willy Stanowski and "Buster" Hoyer, who has never made either team before.

FIRST TO DO IT
If there are any surprises, it must be in the selection of Stanowski to the first position in the first goal, with the great Doc Clapper, acknowledged leader of all the big-league regulars. Never before has a sophomore defenceman, as is Stanowski, entered into the championship of C.P. all-star.

Stan Stanowski, who won't celebrate his 22nd birthday until April 28, did it on the strength of a great season in which he picked up the torch to run on the Toronto club that has carried since the days of King Clapper. For his entire career, Stan has been a regular and his leadership in the clutch has won him the respect of his teammates and the admiration of the fans.

NARROW MARGIN
The selection found difficulty in deciding only the order in which they wanted Brinkman and Brinkman and Brinkman, who brought the Vezina trophy as the league's No. 1 goalie to Toronto for the first time this year, over by a narrow margin. Jimmy Morrison of Detroit and Reggie Dave Kerr were the only two men mentioned as Kerr last year's leading goalie, got into the first team by 29 of the 30 voters. The Bruins captain, who has won the first time so right away in 1935 and has made a convincing defense post for the last three seasons. He has been greater than ever this year.

WAIT FOR ME

By KATHERINE MACY

CHAPTER THIRTY
Peter had finished his instructions to the mechanics, and he had remembered Jan. In the light of the fact that Jan could see the astonishment on his face when he turned and saw Steve Gardner. After the first shock of recognition, he ignored the other man and called, "Coming, Jan!"

"No!" Steve answered for her. "Go ahead and get out of your own jam, Van Vleet. You ought to have better sense than to mix Jan up in it."

"And who asked you?" said Peter coolly, putting his hands into his pockets and looking Steve up and down. "Look here, we don't have any time to lose. The engine's warmed up. It's getting going."

STOOD BETWEEN THEM
Steve stood between them in terrible indecision, all the while with the wind that blew down on them. Steve doubled up his fists and started implacably toward Peter.

She caught his arm quickly. "No, that's not the way," she said. "I'm sorry, Steve. But I'm sickening by your promise. You can't blame me for that."

"I blame you for being a fool," he said angrily, and Van Vleet for being yellow enough to let you be involved with him. Go ahead and marry him if that's your choice. But I will not let him come to you with clean hands."

"No!" said Jan. Then she came closer so that Peter could not hear her. "I don't make any real difference now, Steve. You know this is just a form we are going through to satisfy Peter's parents."

"I don't know I have told you about it, and I don't want him to find out that I've told you. It would only cause more trouble. Don't you see?" she threw out her hands expressively. "What's done is done."

"Please... let me work this out for myself."

STARES QUEERLY
"You," he said, staring at her queerly. "That other marriage. When will this second ceremony take place?"

"Jan!" shouted Peter. "Just a minute! This is Steve. In a day or two. We have to get a Virginia license, I suppose, and then and Robert Van Vleet have to get down to Hollywood for the wedding."

"Lemon!" said Steve slowly. "I'm beginning to see the light." Then, briefly, she looked at him in wonder at his change to good humor.

er, "OK, children. Happy landing! Don't let me delay you any longer. He took off his hat and swept it in a wide, return bow."

Peter gave him an indignant glare and helped Jan into the plane, slamming the door after her.

Jan settled herself beside him, just as light. "I said, I won't take time to get down there weather permitting. Master of a few hours. Dad had the new manager install flood lights on the south side, so we can land all night."

NEVER LEW
The surrealist comforted her and stilled some of her doubts about this flight. She had never flown before and watched with interest his every move as they wheeled along the runway and started to climb.

She looked down as they rose, but the airport fell away from them too quickly for her to catch any glimpse of Steve.

New York lay stretched beneath them in the distance, jeweled lights cutting through the inky blackness.

Jan said nothing until they were over the open country, when the night about them was impenetrable. The air was rough, and Peter stumbled. "This engine's not good. No radio in it, well, they wouldn't mean anything to you anyway."

"But I'll have to hit Hollywood by tomorrow and begin. I've done it before."

STARTLED GLANCE
Sure, from Florida, wasn't it? He gave her a startled glance as that began a train of thought, in their mind. "This engine's not good. No radio in it, well, they wouldn't mean anything to you anyway."

"He was talking about it. Even-ly, wasn't it?"

Another long silence. Then, "Did you believe him?"

"Should I?"

"Depends on what he said." Jan said suddenly. "I don't know any more. What's done is done... as I just told Steve. I'm forgetting there was a person named Esther Weiss, and I hope you'll think."

"Will it?" said Peter. "I can't think of anyone I'd hate to remember more."

MOUTH TWITCHED
"Lemon!" said Steve slowly. "I'm beginning to see the light." Then, briefly, she looked at him in wonder at his change to good humor.

"Lemon!" said Steve slowly. "I'm beginning to see the light." Then, briefly, she looked at him in wonder at his change to good humor.

There can't be two others like us, he said solemnly. "Let's make it stick this time, Jan."

She pressed his arm. Everything was going to be all right. Of course it was. Marriage must be a light-hearted affair, if you looked at it from the proper perspective.

Money made so many paths smooth. Peter had that. He had, too, a great deal of charm; he was lovable, irresponsible, and restless, but if he had something to do in his time itself would fix that.

She could tell him ways of doing. She had to. Why take life so seriously?

With such comfortable rationalizations she blotted her troubles from her mind and dozed for a while.

She didn't see the lights of Camden in Philadelphia. The motor hummed steadily as Peter steered into the night.

SOMETHING WRONG
Something was her... not a sound, just a feeling. Instantly she was sitting up, looking at him. She was brutally cold, stiff from playing in one position for so long. How long had they been flying?

She looked out the window, but it was frosted too heavily to see anything. There was a heaviness about the motion of the plane which made their going sluggish, rough.
